At the ripe old age of 25, Lady Gaga has been hailed by Time magazine as one of the 100 most influential people in the world. With five Grammy awards and an estimated sale of over 15 million albums behind her, what else is there left for Lady Gaga to do? By looking at the stars that have helped shaped her success in the past, we might be able to get a good idea of what the future might hold for this international superstar.

Born Stefani Joanne Angelina Germanotta, Lady Gaga is governed by two very powerful signs: Aries the Ram and the Chinese Tiger. Both of these signs are dedicated go-getters. They set their sights on a target and remain blinkered to all else. From an early age, Lady Gaga knew what she wanted to do and took part in numerous high school musicals. Her school friends remember her as having "a core of good friends; she was a good student. She liked boys a lot, but singing was Number One." However, Lady Gaga recalls that she felt like an outsider at high school: "I didn't fit in and I felt like a freak."

A sense of superiority

This discrepancy is neither part of a synthesized history or a perception on Lady Gaga's part. Rather, she will have been feeling the claws of the Tiger weighing heavily upon her. Tigers are solitary by nature and suffer from an inherent sense of superiority. While Gaga may have appeared popular to others, she will have been regarding her circle of friends from a distance and isolating herself on a psychic level. Her perceived popularity is both part of the Tiger's charm and the Ram's magnetism. Both signs are eminently charismatic. The Tiger draws people to it through its natural authority. The Ram is a Fire sign and burns brightly wherever it goes, illuminating the lives of those who encounter it. Despite her social position within high school, Lady Gaga will have been very much a loner.

The Tiger's self-assuredness came to play a further role in Gaga's success, helping her to gain early entry into the New York University's theatre school. However, she felt isolated again, believing herself to be more creatively adept than her classmates and even some of her teachers. "Once you learn how to think about art, you can teach yourself." This mentality is the blessing and the curse of many Tigers for while they wish to succeed in the public eye, they believe they can only do it alone. This feeling of isolation will only have added to the Ram's skittish nature. If a Ram gets bored, rather than standing back and trying again it will simply walk away from a project having already formed a new goal in its mind. Gaga withdrew from the theatre school after two years in order to pursue her singing career.

Bizarre and provocative

Lady Gaga is as well known for her bizarre and provocative outfits as she is for her abilities as a singer. However, there is more to it than just making sure she stays firmly in the spotlight. Aries astrological First House is The Self. As it suggests, The Self symbolises how we are seen by others. However, on a psychic level, that appearance is composed of our experiences, beliefs and feelings. Lady Gaga's outfits are a physical manifestation of her psychic energies. She is daring, intuitive and experiencing a creative high.

magnetic

Psychic energies like nothing more to be projected and then absorbed. Lady Gaga is tapping into the collective subconscious of her fans and communicating the message that they must strive to be what they want to be, regardless of the obstacles. She is driving them on to achieve artistic heights in whatever way they can. In many ways, she is like a psychic lighthouse - a beacon for those who share her energies but don't know how to focus them.

pioneering

However, the future could be potentially dangerous for Lady Gaga. Her creative and psychic energies are working at their optimum level and have been doing so for some time. Like Aries' fire, psychic energies can burn out if they are not tempered. For Rams this can mean a search for artificial stimulants to simply keep the engine running. Lady Gaga has already been in the press for using cocaine, alcohol and other drugs. In order to sustain herself, she should withdraw from centre stage and recharge her psychic batteries. However, the Tiger within her is drawn to the danger and thrill of pushing itself to the limits. If she is not careful, the immediate future could be fraught with tales of substance abuse and poor life choices. In turn, these symptoms of her subconscious fatigue could bleed into her creative process and cause her to make some artistically empty decisions. Lady Gaga's fire is currently burning bright, but does she have enough psychic reserves to keep it alight for the long haul?

Aries (Mar 21 - Apr 19)

The energy is high with six planets in your sign! This is a truly magnetic combination of influences, but how can you make sense of it all? Mars is a good place to start, since it rules Aries. Its conjunction with Jupiter gives breadth, scope and divine grace to your initiatives. Whatever you've been putting off until tomorrow, whatever dreams have seemed out of reach, now is the time to set the wheels in motion. Mercury and the Moon are linking the deeper aspects of your consciousness to your immediate actions. Just don't overreact when someone makes a remark that doesn't sit right.

Taurus (Apr 20 - May 20)

The time around your birthday is perfect for sensual celebration as the earth enters its natural phase of growth and renewal. You personally also crave to be renewed, but old influences are creating resistance in areas where you know change is needed. Don't worry - all of this changes around the middle of the month when Mars, Mercury, and your ruling planet Venus enter Taurus. This aligns your spiritual strength and purpose with the world around you, allowing those personal changes to lock into place. Treating yourself to something special - a wardrobe upgrade or spa treatment - is a positive way to get the ball rolling.

Gemini (May 21 - June 21)

For the symbol-loving Gemini, age can sometimes feel like more than just a number, and as you prepare to turn another year older, friends and networks take a central role in preparing you for a new incarnation of your ever-charming self. Your house of socialising is positively buzzing with strong planetary energies, but the events and parties you attend must be in accord with your deeper impulses of change and personal healing. Shallow waters are a waste of time this month, when so many meaningful opportunities are within reach. Set the intention to make healthy connections and shed what no longer serves, and the stars will go with you.

Libra (Sept 23 - Oct 22)

Your partnership zone is firing on all cylinders this month, Libra, with no less than six planets in that area of your chart. This energy translates differently, depending on whether you are single or attached. If you are seeking, this is a prime month to find. The right words will sound especially charming in your ears, and attraction is likely to be both deep and sudden. If you are in a partnership, expect a spike in passion, depth and honest communication. Healthy relationships are all about growth, so explore something new together. You'll find it brings you closer than ever before.

Scorpio (Oct 23 - Nov 21)

You often like things to be deep, psychic and sexy, and those are all traits you're famous for. Daily routine and bodily health may not seem to fit this description, but nonetheless, it is an area of life that needs work right now. The planets are turning attention toward your everyday habits in order to create a healthier, more wholesome Scorpio. Take account of all those little things, and allow the process of Spring cleaning to permeate many levels of your existence. In doing so, you'll move into the Summer months feeling clear and invigorated, not to mention sexier than ever.

Sagittarius (Nov 22 - Dec 21)

When the stars say that enjoyment is the flavour of the month, what can you do but agree and go along with it? All the firepower is in your 5th house, including your ruling planet Jupiter conjunct a potent and sexy Mars - such a concentrated force is hard to deny. You are almost certain to attract attention from not one but several admirers, and find all kinds of diversions and amusements. The only drawback is that you may temporarily lose sight of your long term goals, or do something you regret later. Luckily, Saturn gives a little perspective in your 11th house of friends, influencing you to keep healthy company.

Cancer (June 22 - July 22)

Job and career has been a recent theme, and this month the lineup of planets in your career zone is incredibly strong. It includes your ruling planet, the moon, in conjunction with the communicative planet Mercury. This means nobody can help you navigate these waters unless you put your feelings into words. The effects of an unhappy career can be severe, and it has to be addressed sooner or later. Why not now, while the planets are shedding light on the situation? If you've already been busy making changes, don't let up - ride the wave until it breaks, and don't let anybody tell you it can't be done.

Leo (July 23 - Aug 22)

What is it you've been putting off, Leo? Something serious perhaps, a new kind of education, or a trip you've been meaning to take? This is a month of new direction, and in order to really take advantage, you'll have to keep diversion to a minimum. You love to have fun and this is part of the beauty of who you are, but shifting course takes a great deal of energy. Once your coordinates are set and you've answered the call of finding a new direction in at least one area of your life, then you will be able to enjoy the finer things even more, knowing that you've been faithful to who you are.

Virgo (Aug 23 - Sep 22)

Synchronicity and intuition can be scary to a Virgo, due to your mental strength and desire to know how things work. But subtle energies can also be immensely satisfying, as they bring surprising and meaningful connections into everyday life. Such is the case this month, as your psychic 8th house lights up under the influence of six planets, including your ruling planet Mercury conjunct the moon. This brings up deep emotions and hidden partnership issues, so be prepared for a little drama. Money is best used sparingly this month as the stern Saturn continues through your second house of finance.

Swimming in shallow waters is a waste of time this month, when so many meaningful opportunities are within reach.

Capricorn (Dec 22 - Jan 19)

The stars give you an increased ability to communicate your true feelings, and this is especially true at home. Communicative Mercury is conjunct the deeply sensitive moon in your 4th house, and this creates drama as honesty brings unresolved issues to light. Allow Venus and Jupiter to calm you and expand your perspective when things get heated. Remember that healing old wounds is not easy but ultimately for the best. Let your compassion shine through any disagreements that arise. In the world of career, things look auspicious as your ruling planet Saturn continues to lend you its strength.

Aquarius (Jan 20 - Feb 18)

Words grow powerful this month under the influence of six planets in the communication area of your chart. What's more, these planets are in Aries, which makes them fiery and impulsive. If you've been trying to get someone's attention, you'll finally succeed. Your emotions, ambitions and insights are all in alignment, so make good use of it. Financial matters are less clear under Neptune's influence, so go easy on the wallet and keep things simple. In terms of love, it's time to create more openness between your family and your partnership. Keeping things hidden only sews the seeds of future discord.

Pisces (Feb 19 - Mar 20)

Last month was highly intuitive and psychic, and now the stars ask you to drastically shift gears. Money and resources take center stage as an entourage of planets make their way through the financial area of your chart. Even the sensitive and psychic moon, which rules your sign, is there. This means that your financial situation is linked to your wellbeing on many levels - remember that a rising tide lifts all boats. The stars are helping you to bring more abundance and clarity into your financial picture so that you can thrive on those deeper levels of existence which are closer to who you really are.

Are Soul Mates Forever?

To find a true soul mate, first debunk the myths.

Whether we're consciously aware of it or not, most of us yearn for a soul mate. But the notion is misrepresented in many films and books, giving us an unrealistic idea of what a soul mate actually is.

The soul mate is supposed to be a lightning strike - the instant recognition of someone who will intuitively understand our needs and wants. Unfortunately, pursuing this version of a soul mate can only end in disappointment. True soul mates are not a quick-fix to life's problems. Nor are they necessarily bound together for eternity. True soul mates are the result of a great deal of psychic and spiritual work, with both parties taking on an active role in the relationship.

In searching for a soul mate, most people think of a parallel version of themselves - someone who likes the same things, thinks the same thoughts and feels the same feelings. However, in psychic terms, this sort of relationship is stagnant. After all, if both parties are more or less the same, what is there to discover? How is it possible to grow spiritually if you both want the same things? A true soul mate is not there to simply reflect your personality, but rather to complement your spiritual self, and the difference between those two points is vast.

Two spirits that complement one another

Spiritually complementing someone is more difficult than physically doing so. In complementing someone's personality, the popular notion is that you enhance their good points and render their bad points almost invisible. To spiritually complement another psychic being, you still enhance their good points, but the real work focuses on the negative aspects of their spirit. In order to fully complement another person - physically, mentally and psychically - the negative aspects of their being must be examined closely and built upon. In spiritual terms it serves no purpose to rid someone of their negative qualities, because you are ridding them of an aspect of themselves. Instead, they must be encouraged to recognise and admit these qualities in order to gain control over them.

In addition to your soul mate gaining control over aspects of their psyche, you will also achieve a greater understanding of yourself. In recognising a problem within another, you are admitting the existence of that quality within yourself. It is only by completely understanding another spirit that the two can truly grow together.

Just as lives come to an end, so do soul mates. Upon the death of a partner, many people deprive themselves of happiness by refusing to become involved with other people. Rather than an act of loyalty, this is an act of fear. In order to fully connect with another on a spiritual level, you have to make your own spirit vulnerable. Allow others to see it, warts and all. Beginning another psychic adventure with another partner can be a scary thought, yet spiritual growth must continue through new relationships.

More than one soul mate

Many people believe that it is possible to have more than one soul mate, and that true spiritual love should not be confined to just one partner. In this view, friends, family and even pets can be soul mates, as they all reflect aspects of yourself. The more psychic bonds we establish with those around us, the more developed and spiritually developed we become. It may be that, rather than needing the spiritual attention of just one person, we become enriched by a variety of psychic links.

The very notion of a soul mate is misleading, for it relies on the notion that there is only one perfect person for you on the planet. As we have seen, focusing all your efforts to find that person may cause you to miss out on other meaningful relationships throughout your life.

The best way to prepare yourself for a soul mate relationship is to try and gain as much inner spiritual awareness as possible. This does not mean eradicating all negativity from your spirit. Instead, it means accepting all that you are, including your faults, and being aware of your self-worth. Only by being receptive to our own spirits can we hope to attune to the spirits of others and find our soul mates.

Free Will vs. Destiny

The debate as to whether our destinies are fixed or whether we truly have free will is one that has plagued philosophers and spiritual leaders for centuries. One school of thought believes that everything we do is predetermined by a higher force, while the other believes that we choose to act independently, irrespective of whether a higher force is involved or not. Are we creatures of destiny or are we responsible for our own actions? On closer examination, perhaps the two thoughts are not mutually exclusive.

The theory that our lives are predetermined is a frightening one for some people. It suggests that, no matter what actions we take in our life the conclusion is already mapped out and inevitable. Rather like driving along a road in the dark, we can only see as far as our headlights will allow us but, whatever actions we take along that road, our fates will never change. For others, the idea that our paths are already set is a comfort. It denotes the idea of a higher plan and that we are all part of a greater purpose – a Grand Plan.

The safety net of destiny

Those who choose to embrace the idea of free will tend to perceive the notion of destiny as a 'safety-net' – a convenient theory that absolves us of any true responsibility to ourselves and to others. They prefer to believe that we are in command of our own lives on a spiritual and physical level and that our ultimate fates are not part of any cosmic formula.

However, a new school of thought is changing our perception of both these ideas. First proposed by the great American scholar Ralph Waldo Emerson, this theory has found a new lease of life among modern philosophers. In essence, it challenges the idea that our earth-bound destiny is an immovable force. Rather than being a fixed point from which we cannot turn or deviate, destiny is perceived as a continually changing, perpetually evolving phenomenon. If we pursue this theory even further, it then suggests that we are each able to forge our own destinies through the options available to us through the concept of free will. Consequently, the two beliefs are intertwined.

Making your own luck

Embracing this concept also gives credence to the saying that 'you make your own luck.' Those who go through life making choices that are spiritually and psychically responsible tend to forge a destiny that is rewarding, although, sometimes, this can be on a level that can be hard to understand. Bad things still happen to good people. However, it is how we deal with those bad times that determine our spiritual completion. In a greater sense, the idea of destiny is not lost. If we are continually forging our own destinies through free will then there can be no such thing as a wasted life. We all have our own part to play and a life that is cut short or beset with ill-fortune still resonates through the lives of those around them at a spiritual and psychic level.

While we may be masters of our own individual destinies, perhaps there is a greater destiny to be forged. Rather like a complex being experiencing itself subjectively on many different levels, the sum of our combined destinies might be the ultimate destiny after all.

READER PROFILE

Sandy PIN 5511

When did you first realise you were psychic?

I realised that I was psychic when I was around 4 years old, when my Uncle Bobby came to visit from London. I told him that his return journey to London on a particular day would not happen. I had a vision of a goods train derailed on what is known as Balby Bridge. Well, it came to be, and it took some time to repair the track! Uncle Bobby was forced to turn back after two days.

What makes a good psychic reading?

A good Psychic, in my humble opinion, is someone who can tap into the energy field of another person, forming impressions and pathways of light to assist the individual's need to find their particular path.

Have you had any memorable experiences reading for a client?

Yes, I am free to name him. His name is Barry and I told him that he would own the house next to his, making it into one big house. I also told him there was a blue Rolls Royce that came with the house. Some months later, this proved to be true.

Finally, I told him that he would patent a drug for horses that would even be able to help some cancers in humans. He now awaits the bidding for the sale of this patent!
